

FERPA Notice and Objection Form

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) sets our requirements for the protection of privacy of parents and students, including privacy of student records. Generally, parents and/or students must provide written consent before an educational agency may disclose personally identifiable information (PII). However, there are exceptions to this general rule. Specifically, an educational agency must provide PII when ordered by a court, which the CDE has been ordered to do in litigation. The CDE is obligated to inform the parent or student that the court has ordered it to produce documents and/or data that includes those individuals PII and that such persons may object directly to the court regarding this disclosure. If you have received such a notification, here is the link for the Objection Form- <http://www.cde.gov/morganhillcase> (<http://www.cde.ca.gov/morganhillcase>).
